New Policy Approaches for Innovation-Based Regional Path Development and Grand Societal Challenges

International Workshop
Organisers: Michaela Trippl, Gudrun Haindlmaier
Department of Geography and Regional Research, University of Vienna

Date: 05 - 06 March 2020
Venue: University of Vienna, Universitätsstraße 7, 1010 Vienna, room 4C

Over the past few years, there has been an intensive discussion about what policy approaches and strategies are best suited to promote new economic growth paths and to tackle grand societal challenges that emanate from globalization, digitalization, increasing inequality, climate change or the aging of society. Contemporary discussions about smart specialization, new industrial policies, new mission-oriented and transformative innovation policies, modern forms of governance and calls to rethink the role of the state reflect these concerns in apparent ways.

Taking a regional perspective and adopting a broad understanding of innovation (including technological, social and institutional innovation), the workshop aims to advance our understanding of what can be termed ‘new generation of innovation policies’. The workshop will bring together scholars from different countries to reflect on sound policy approaches and governance forms in and for regions.

Thursday, 05th March 2020

09.30  Arne ISAKSEN
Digital and 'green' restructuring of established regional industries

10.15  Franz TÖDTLING, Michaela TRIPPL, Alexandra FRANGENHEIM
Policies options for green regional development: adopting a production and application perspective

11.30  Bjørn T. ASHEIM
Unrelated knowledge combinations - new windows of opportunities for economic diversification beyond EGG?

13.30  Fiorenza BELUSSI
The technological evolution of regions and the role of smart-specialization policies: are they convergent of divergent? Lessons from the Veneto region

14.15  Helen LAWTON SMITH
Applying the entrepreneurial ecosystem and industrial path development concepts to regional policy analysis - a critique

15.30  Gudrun HAINDLMAIER
Policy coordination and the new mission orientation

Friday, 06th March 2020

09.00  Heike MAYER
Social innovations and regional policy in the context of Swiss mountain regions

09.45  Sabine DÖRRY
The finance industry in transformation

11.15  Miren LARREA
Transforming regional innovation policy to meet grand societal challenges: the contributions of action research

13.00  James KARLENSE
Co-creating rigorous and relevant knowledge for grand societal challenges: An action research approach

13.45  David A. WOLFE
Experimental governance - Conceptual approaches and practical cases

14.30  End of workshop